Bolsover, 1880.—The three titles under "England" were conferred upon Hans Wm. Bentinck, confidential adviser of William Prince of Orange, whom he accompanied to this country, afterwards commanding the Dutch Regiment of Horse Guards at the Battle of the Boyne. His ancestors had been Barons Bentinck or Benting in Holland. The Dukedom was granted to the 2nd Earl, whilst the Bolsover Barony was awarded to the widow of Lieut.-Gen. Arthur Cavendish-Bentinck, grandson of the 3rd Duke, and father, by his 2nd wife, of the present Peer; remainder was given to her husband's issue male. The 3rd Duke assumed by licence the additional name Cavendish, whilst the name of the 4th and 5th Dukes was Cavendish-Bentinck-Scott, the final surname being assumed when the 4th Duke married the daughter and co-heir of Gen. Jno. Scott; but in practice, if Cavendish is a Christian name, the surname is Bentinck alone.

CREATIONS. Irel.: Bn. Clive (of Plassey), 1762. Gt. Br.: Bn. Clive of Walcot, 1794. U.K.: E. of Powis, Visc. Clive, Bn. Powis, and Bn. Herbert of Chirbury, 1804.—The Irish Barony was conferred upon the famous Indian commander who visited with such condign punishment Suraja Dowlah, author of the atrocities of the "Black Hole." He stormed Calcutta, and afterwards, with only 3,000 men, completely routed Dowlah at the head of 70,000. After this he became Governor of Calcutta and then overthrew the power of the Dutch in India. He continued to be M.P. for Shrewsbury after elevation to the Irish Peerage, but died in 1774 by his own hand. His son and successor received the British and U.K. titles. The earlier Peerages Bn. Herbert of Chirbury and Earl of Powis had been conferred upon Henry Arthur Herbert in 1743 and 1748 respectively. Edwd. Clive, the 1st Earl of the present line, married the daughter of the last Earl of the preceding, who was of the family of Herbert, and that surname his successor the 2nd Earl assumed by licence. Still earlier titles than any of the preceding were the Barony Powis of Powis Castle (1629) and the Marquessate of Powis (1687)—both extinct in 1748. There may also be mentioned the Dukedom of Powis and Marquessate of Montgomery created by James II. after his flight to France—titles, of course, never recognised as valid.

Creations. Scot.: Visc. Drumlanrig and Bn. Douglas of Hawick and Tibbers, 1628; E. of Queensberry, 1633; a Bt. 1669; M. of Queensberry, 1682.—Sir Wm. Douglas, a natural son of the 2nd Earl of Douglas (who fell at "Chevy Chase," as stated under "Hamilton, D." and "Mar") and himself distinguished in the wars with England, received an undated charter of the Drumlanrig Barony. The 9th feudal Bn. Drumlanrig (a title starting before 1388), having entertained James VI. at the time of his accession to the English crown, obtained the Viscty. and then the Earldom, the feudal title disappearing. The 3rd Earl was made Marq. of Queensberry, and in the following year Duke of the same, both creations having a string of lesser titles attached to them. His successor, however, obtained a new patent under which the terms of remainder were altered, the result being that the Dukedom, with all the other titles not cited above, became merged, on the death of the 4th Duke, in the Dukedom of Buccleuch.

Creations. Scot.: A Bt. 1627; Bn. Reay, 1628; same title U.K. 1881.—Sir Donald Mackay (Kt.) was created a Baronet of Scotland and in the following year a Baron. He had been an active soldier on the Royal side during the Civil War. The 2nd son of the 2nd Bn. served abroad in the Scottish Brigade, and married and settled in Holland, his descendants thus becoming practically Dutch. On the failure of the elder line the succession naturally passed to these last, and Æneas, Bn. Mackay d'Ophemert in Holland, inherited as 10th Bn. Reay. The line has thus been partially British all along, but the procedure of naturalisation was still rendered necessary.

CREATIONS. Eng.: A Bt. 1690 (N.S.). Gt. Br.: Bn. Grantham, 1761. U.K.: Earl de Grey, 1816; Visc. Goderich, 1827; E. of Ripon, 1833; M. of Ripon, 1871.—The Rt. Hon. Sir Thos. Robinson, a cousin of the 5th Bt., a distinguished diplomatist and one of the Secretaries of State, was raised to the Peerage as Bn. Grantham. A Marquessate of De Grey had been created in 1740, and upon its failure the eldest daughter of the Marchss. who was its 2nd and last holder was made Countess de Grey. Her nephew and heir had already many years succeeded as 3rd Bn. Grantham before by her decease the Earldom was brought by special remainder into this line. Earl de Grey's younger brother Fredk. John was created Visc. Goderich and Earl of Ripon; his son, the late Peer, succeeded his father in these titles, then his uncle as Earl de Grey, and ultimately was raised to the Marquessate of Ripon. The above extinct De Grey Marquessate had carried with it a Barony of Lucas, and this passed by regular succession to the daughter who was created Countess; but by the marriage of her successor's (Earl de Grey's) daughter to the 6th Earl Cowper, whilst her father had left no male issue, the Barony went with that daughter into this latter line, and on the extinction of this it became an independent Peerage; but the De Grey Earldom, which was limited to the heirs male of the above Countess and then those of her sister, the wife of the 2nd Bn. Grantham, passed, by the latter descent, to the late Peer, his predecessor's nephew. The late Marquess had been Viceroy of India, and also Sec. of State for War, India, and the Colonies, Lord Pres. of Counc., &c., and late Ld. Privy Seal.

He served throughout the Mutiny and on the Indian Frontier, in Abyssinia, Lushai Expedition, Afghanistan, and the South African War, in which he was Commander-in-Chief, 1899—1900. The high appointments held by the Earl included those of Commander-in-Chief of the Army in Ireland, India and at Home, Master Gunner of St. James's, Col. Commandant R.A., Col. of the Irish Guards, and of the National Reserve. In addition to his great military career Earl Roberts will be distinguished in history as having devoted the last years of his long and strenuous life to the advocacy of National Service as an absolute necessity for the physical well-being of the nation, and in view of the German menace, upon the imminence of which he was convinced. His death took place while on a visit of inspection to the Indian Contingent of the Expeditionary Force in France "within sound of the guns," and he was buried with full Military Ceremonial at St. Paul's Cathedral on Nov. 19, 1914.

ROTHES, Earl of. Norman Evelyn Leslie, 19th Earl (Scot.), a Scottish Repres. Peer (el. 1906), Lt.-Col. comdg. The Highland Cyclist Bn. (Terr.), has been Capt. Fife Roy. Field Res. Artill., Lieut. Devonsh. Mil. and 2nd Lieut. 6th Vol. Batt. Black Watch; grandson of Ctss. of Rothes 18th in line, and son of the late Martin Leslie Leslie (see below): b. July 13, 1877; suc. 1893; mar. 1900 Noel Lucy Martha, dau. of Thos. Dyer-Edwardes. Seat, Leslie House, Leslie, Fife.

Creations. Scot.: Ld. Leslie, 1445; E. of Rothes and Ld. Ballinbriech, 1458.—Geo. Leslie was constituted a Lord of Parliament by the title Lord Leslie in 1445, and in 1458 (N.S.) was made Earl of Rothes and had his estates united into the Ballinbriech Barony. The 3rd Earl fell at Flodden 1513. The 7th Earl, who was a great favourite of Charles II., and had been taken prisoner at Worcester, obtained a new charter opening the succession to females, and was thus succeeded by his daughter Margaret: he was also made Duke of Rothes, but that title lapsed at his death. In the Scottish Peerage there is no abeyance between sisters, and thus there have been five Countesses since 1681.

CREATIONS. Scot.: Bn. Roxburghe, 1600; E. of Roxburghe and Bn. Ker of Cessford and Cavertoun, 1616; a Bt. 1625; D. of Roxburghe, M. of Bowmont and Cessford, E. of Kelso, and Visc. Broxmouth, 1707. U.K.: Earl Innes, 1837.—Sir Robt. Ker (Kt.), who had accompanied James VI. into England, was created Bn. Roxburghe and afterwards Earl of the same (with accessory titles). He obtained a charter allowing him to nominate his successor, and his will stipulated that whoever succeeded him should marry one of the daughters of his deceased son Ld. Ker. This contract was carried out by his grandson the Hn. sir Wm. Drummond, son of his eldest daughter, who had married the 2nd Earl of Perth; he accordingly married Lady Jean Ker, the eldest of Ld. Ker's daus., and his own 1st cousin, and thus succeeded as 2nd Earl of Roxburghe and assumed his predecessor's surname of Ker. The 3rd Earl was lost in the ship 'Gloucester' off the east coast in 1682, when accompanying the Duke of York (who was saved, and was afterwards King James II.) on his return to Scotland. The 5th Earl obtained the Dukedom. The 3rd Duke was a famous collector of books. The 2nd son of the 2nd Earl had succeeded to the now extinct Barony of Bellendon, and the 7th Bn. E. became 4th Duke; but at his death the minor title came to an end and the Dukedom lay dormant for seven years. Another daughter of the above Ld. Ker, the Hon. Margaret Ker, married Sir James Innes, 3rd Bt., and their great grandson, the 6th Bt., became 5th Duke. He had adopted the surname of Innes-Norcliffe on account of his wife's succession to an estate, but on her death he substituted the present name of Innes-Ker. His son the 6th Duke obtained the U.K. Earldom.

RUTHVEN (pron. Rivven, formerly spelt Rythven), BARON. WALTER JAMES Hore-Ruthven, 9th Bn. (Scot.), a D.L. for Perthsh., formerly Capt. Rifle Brigade (served in Crimea, Mutiny, and Abyssinia), and afterwards Major London Scottish R.V.: grandson of 8th Bnss. and son of William Hore-Ruthven; b. June 14, 1838; suc. 1864, widower, having mar. 1869 Lady Caroline Annesley Gore, dau. of 4th E. of Arran, K.P. (d. 1914). Seat, Newland, Gorebridge, Midlothn.

CREATION. Scot.: Ld. Ruthven, 1651.—Sir Thos. Ruthven (Kt.) was the 1st Bn. of the present line, the titles of Ld. Ruthven (1467) and Earl of Gowrie (1581) having been forfeited by attainder in 1600, in consequence of the plot known as the Gowrie Conspiracy: the 1st Ld. R. of the new line was grandson of the 2nd Ld. of the former one. The original patent of this Peerage having been destroyed by fire, a question has been raised as to whether it allowed of descent through a female, and 'Debrett' accordingly treats the present Bn. as a claimant only, he having had three Baronesses among his predecessors. But 'Burke' furnishes a series of facts which show that the succession has never hitherto been considered open to question, whilst the successive Peers have been summoned as Barons or Baronesses to every coronation from that of George II. onwards.

Sec. to late M. of Salisbury, a M.P. 1888-95, summoned 1896 to House of Lords in his father's Barony of Manners of Haddon, which now becomes re-merged in the Dukedom; son of the 7th D.: b. April 16, 1852; suc. 1906 (C.); mar. 1882 Marion Margaret Violet, dau. of the late Col. Hon. Chas. H. Lindsay,

C.B., son of 24th E. of Crawford. Seats, Belvoir Castle, Leic., nr. Grantham; Stanton-Woodhouse, Rowsley, Derbysh.; Longshaw Lodge, Sheffield; town res., 16 Arlington St., Piccadilly, W.

CREATIONS. Eng.: E. of Rutland, 1525; Bn. Manners of Haddon, 1679, by writ; D. of Rutland and M. of Granby, 1703. U.K.: Bn. Roos of Belvoir, 1896.—Thomas Manners, 13th Ld. Roos (see "De Ros," which is the same Peerage), was created 1st Earl of Rutland, the two titles running together until the death of the 3rd Earl, when the Barony went to his daughter who married the Earl of Exeter, but their son was succeeded in the Barony by the 6th Earl of Rutland, thus bringing it back to the former line, the latter Earldom having devolved upon the brother of the 3rd Earl, and so proceeded till, on the death of the 6th Earl just mentioned, it passed with his daughter (his only child) to the line of the Dukes of Buckingham, the 1st of whom she married. On the death of the 2nd Duke it fell into abeyance, out of which it was called in the reign of George III. in favour of Charlotte, wife of Lord Henry FitzGerald, whose descendant is the present Bnss. de Ros. The 9th Earl was made Bn. Manners of Haddon and afterwards elevated to the Dukedom. The late 7th Duke, a K.G. and G.C.B., was repeatedly a Cabinet Minister between 1852 and 1892—variously as First Commissioner of Works (thrice), Postmaster-General (twice), and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. St. John of Bletso, 1559; a Bt. 1660.—Oliver St. John, 8th Bn. Beauchamp of Bletso (abeyant Peerage), was the first to obtain this Barony. That of Beauchamp had been conferred, by Edward III., upon Roger de Beauchamp, a distinguished soldier and Chamberlain of the Household. Sir H. Nicolas mentions no fewer than eight Baronies bearing the title of Beauchamp, and that of Beauchamp of Bletso was created by writ in 1363, but remained dormant from the above Roger's death in the absence of any further summons. Upon the creation by patent of the St. John Barony the other title was revived, but through female inheritance it passed successively from this line to the Earls of Nottingham and Peterborough and the Duke of Gordon, till it fell into abeyance in 1836 between the four surviving sisters of the 5th Duke and the then heir of the Duke of Manchester. The 2nd Bn. St. John was one of the Judges in the trial of Mary Queen of Scots. The 4th was made Earl of Bolingbroke, but that title expired with the 3rd Earl. The existing Bolingbroke Viscty., however, starts from the same ancestry as this. The form "Bletso" is that of the Roll of the Peers and of 'Debrett' and Mr. Cokayne; elsewhere it is given as "Bletsoe" or "Bletsho."

 The 1st Count de Salis was Ambassador from the Grisons Republic to Queen Anne, and his son, the 2nd Count, was naturalised 1730 as a British subject. All younger sons, and their sons, have a right to prefix "Count" to their Christian names, and similarly daughters can prefix "Countess" so long as they are unmarried. The family—which contains now between one and two hundred members, mostly German, but some Italian and French—were created Hered. Kts. by Pope Pius V. in 1571. The name is Italian, but the branch given under De Salis (q.v. for all other names) has anglicised it and thus takes the preposition as part of the surname.

Salisbury; town res., 20 Arlington St., S.W.

Creations. Eng.: Bn. Cecil, 1603; Visc. Cranborne, 1604; E. of Salisbury, 1605. Gt. Br.: M. of Salisbury, 1789.—There were Earls of Salisbury from the time of Stephen, but the title underwent several temporary extinctions. The 3rd Earl in the second line was beheaded by the rabble at Cirencester in 1400. Richd. Nevill, the 1st in the next line, was attainted and beheaded. His successor, Earl also of Warwick, was slain at Barnet in 1471. Both Earldoms were next conferred upon the Duke of Clarence, the murdered brother of Edward IV. Then the Duke of Gloucester, afterwards King Richard III., was made Earl of Salisbury. After him Margaret, daughter of the Duke of Clarence, was Countess, but she too was attainted and beheaded. This brings us to the commencement of the present line, which was created simultaneously with that of Exeter. The Rt. Hon. Sir Robt. Cecil, younger son of Wm. Cecil, Ld. Burghley, and Secretary of State under Elizabeth, was awarded the above three English titles shortly after King James's accession. The 7th Earl, a F.R.S. and Lord Chamberlain to Geo. III., was raised to the Marquessate. The 2nd Marq. was Lord Lieutenant of Middlesex and Lord President of the Council. The late 3rd Marquess, K.G. and G.C.V.O., was thrice Prime Minister and four times Secretary for Foreign Affairs. Previous to his accession to the Peerage he had been (1853-68) a M.P., at first as Lord Robt. Cecil and from the death of his elder brother as Visc. Cranborne.—The family name is conventionally Cecil only, that of Gascoyne having been added by the 2nd Marquess on his marriage with a lady of that surname.

Aug. 3, 1858; suc. 1907 (L.); mar. 1884 Marion Ruperta Murray, dau. of the late Maj. Robt. B. Lawes. Seat, Broughton Castle, Banbury.

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. Saye and Sele, 1447 by writ, 1603 by patent (precedence governed by latter).—Sir James Fiennes, Warden of the Cinque Ports and Lord Treasurer of England, was created 1st Bn.; subsequently, however, he was imprisoned in the Tower, whence he was riotously dragged by Jack Cade's mob and beheaded in Cheapside. His successor was made Vice-Adm. of England under the great Earl of Warwick, but afterwards he fled to Flanders with Edward IV., and was ultimately slain at the Battle of Barnet. The next four Barons were never summoned to Parliament, but the 7th received a new Barony by letters-patent. The 8th Bn. (2nd by patent, but the numbering is reckoned from the 1st Bn. by writ) was distinguished as a leader on the side of the Parliament against King Charles, but though he remained "rebelliously disposed" he died in 1662 without having suffered any punishment from that Monarch's son. He was created Visc. Saye and Sele; but at the death of his son the 2nd Visc. in 1674 the Baronies went into abeyance, the one by writ being regarded as governing the succession; but the Viscty. held on till the death of its 6th possessor in 1781. At this date the abeyance was determined in favour of Thos. Twisleton, a Major-General in the Army, who thereupon succeeded as 13th Bn. (the numbering of 'Burke,' derived retrospectively from the date 1715, when the abeyance was actually terminated, though three successors de jure never assumed the title). The next Peer assumed the name of Fiennes (also Eardley, which went no further than his successor), and the 16th (né Twisleton), who was Canon Residentiary of Hereford Cathedral, adopted the addition of Wykeham-Fiennes. He was 20th in descent from Geoffrey, Ld. Saye, one of the 25 Barons who wrung from the King the observance of Magna Charta.—The family name is conventionally Fiennes only, though the full form occurs in the 'Army List.'

Lumley, 1689; E. of Scarbrough, 1690.—An English Barony of Lumley was conferred in 1399 upon Sir Ralph de Lumley, Deputy-Governor of Berwick-upon-Tweed; this Peerage lasted till the death of the 7th Bn. in 1609 (his father having been attainted, and himself having obtained the title by a new creation which lapsed on his dying childless). The Irish Visctcy. was conferred upon Sir Richd. Lumley (Kt.), a great grandson of the previous 5th Bn. and 2nd cousin of the 7th, and who was afterwards a Commander under Prince Rupert. His successor, who held chief command at Sedgemoor in 1685, when the Duke of Monmouth was defeated, obtained the three English titles of the later creation. The 7th Earl assumed the additional name of Saville, but this ceased on the accession of the 9th, who was a cousin

 The last four Bts. were also holders of the Btcy. of Hartington, which passed in 1905 to the Rt. Hon. Sir Alex. Fuller-Acland-Hood, 4th Bt. of St. Audries, since cr. 1st Bn. St. Audries. The two Btcies. of Gt. Barr and Hartington were created the one in the name of Scott and the other of Bateman, but the latter was made open to succession of male descendants of the 1st Bt.'s daughters. The 2nd Bt. of Gt. Barr married the daughter and co-heir of the 1st Bt. of Hartington, and thus the 3rd Bt. in the Gt. Barr line came at his birth to be inheritor of the other line also. This explains the double name "Bateman-Scott," or "Bateman and Scott" formerly in use.

Creations. Scot.: E. of Seafield, Visc. Reidhaven, and Ld. Ogilvy of Deskford and Cullen, 1701.—Sir Walter Ogilvie (Kt.) was in 1616 created Ld. Ogilvie, and his son James was in 1638 and 1641 advanced to be Earl of Findlater. The Lordship and 1st Earldom expired; but the 1641 Earldom lasted till the death of the 7th in its line. James, 4th Earl of Findlater, received two creations of Peerage, the former including a Viscty. of Seafield which lapsed concurrently with the Findlater Earldom. At the second creation he was awarded the above three Scottish titles, this time with remainder to heirs of his estate. Accordingly on the death of the above 7th Earl (4th of Seafield) the titles of 1701 passed to a cousin, Sir Lewis Alex. Grant, 8th Bt., who forthwith assumed the additional name of Ogilvie and became 5th Earl of Seafield. The 9th Earl was made Bn. Strathspey, a title previously granted to the 7th, but lapsing on the death of his successor, and which has now branched off as a distinct peerage. The late Earl informed us that the surname is now properly "Grant" only.

Creations. Eng.: A Bt. 1622; Bn. Ashley, 1661; E. of Shaftesbury and Bn. Cooper, 1672.—The 1st Bn. and afterwards Earl was Sir Anthony Ashley Cooper, 2nd Bt., a prominent statesman who during the Stuart trouble sided first with the King, then with the Parliament, and ultimately with the Restoration. He was a member of the "Cabal" Ministry and became Lord High Chancellor, but it is to his influence that the nation is indebted for the Habeas Corpus Act, which he carried through the two Houses with great difficulty; he was also the first to introduce a Bill for rendering the Judges independent of the Crown. The 3rd Earl was distinguished in literature and philosophy; the 7th as one of the most noted philanthropists of the 19th century. The surname is conventionally Ashley only.

Palmer-Morewood, and divorced wife of Alf. E. M. Mundy. Seat, Ingestre Hall, Stafford: town res., 12a George St., Hanover Sq., W. (Ctss. of S., Alton Towers, Stoke-upon-Trent.)

Creations. Eng.: E. of Shrewsbury, 1442. Gt. Br.: Bn. Talbot, 1733; Earl Talbot and Visc. Ingestre, 1784. Irel.: E. of Waterford, 1446.—A Barony of Talbot by writ commenced in 1331 (and that out of a feudal Barony dating from the time of Henry I.), and this Peerage continued until it is now for the second time in abeyance. Jno. Talbot, 7th Bn. (a Bnss. was 6th in line), a great Commander in the French wars, termed by Shakespeare "the great Alcides of the field," though once defeated and taken prisoner by Joan of Arc, was created Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford, being twice made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. He was slain in his 80th year after having been victorious in forty fights; and the English dominion in France practically expired with him. The 2nd Earl fell at Northampton on the Lancastrian side. The 6th Earl became 4th husband of the proud and unscrupulous woman Elizabeth, daughter of John Hardwick. The 11th Earl died from a wound received in a duel with the 2nd Duke of Buckingham. The 12th was created Duke of Shrewsbury (1694) for his services in transferring the crown to William of Orange (he having embraced the Protestant religion in place of that of his ancestors); he was afterwards influential in securing the succession of George I. But he left no issue and the Dukedom expired. His cousin and successor returned to the older religion and was in holy orders. The above Barony of 1331, after its first abeyance, passed by marriage into the Norfolk Dukedom, in which it remained until the death of the 9th Duke in 1777. Meantime in 1733 there had been created the still existing Barony of Talbot (of Hensol), which was conferred upon Chas. Talbot, son of the militant Bp. of Durham (see Introd., "Bishops") and a descendant of one of the younger sons of the 2nd Earl, himself being successively M.P. for Tregony and Durham, a P.C., and afterwards Lord Chancellor. His son and successor, Lord Steward of the Household, was created Earl Talbot. The elder Shrewsbury line became extinct with the 17th Earl in 1856, so that the succession then passed to the 3rd Earl Talbot, who became 18th Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford. The additional surname Chetwynd was taken by Royal Licence by the 1st Earl Talbot, but it is generally ignored in use except in legal documents.

B.* We have asked specially as to the style of the Viscountess, and received the answer as above. Practice varies greatly in these cases (see Introd.), for we recently had the forms "Lady Helen Stewordale" and "Lady Maud Wolmer," and now "Lady Idina Hythe." Simultaneously with the preceding we wrote to the Earl of Pembroke and had the reply that his son's wife, who with her sister obtained the rank of a Marquess's daughter, was styled distinctly "The Lady Herbert" and not "Lady Beatrice Herbert."

SINCLAIR, family name of CAITHNESS Earldom (except present Earl and his daus., whose name is now Buchan), C.V. for "Ladies" and "Hons.," and of PENTLAND Barony (not of follg.).

SINCLAIR, BARON. CHARLES WILLIAM St. Clair, 15th Bn. (Scot.), a Scot. Repres. Peer (el. 1885), a D.L. for Berwicksh., Col. in Army retd., late of 57th Foot, served in Crimea and Mutiny and as A.D.C. in N.Z. War of 1861-2; son of 14th Bn.: b. Sept. 8, 1831; suc. 1880 (C.); mar. 1870 Margaret Jane, dau. of Jas. Murray, of Bryanston Square. Seats, Herdmanston, Pencaitland, Haddingtonsh.; Nisbet House, Duns, Berwicksh.; town res., 55 Onslow Sq., S.W.

CREATION. Scot.: Ld. Sinclair, 1449, confirmed 1489.—The 1st Ld. fully recognised was Henry Sinclair, grandson of an Earl of Caithness, but 'Burke' now regards that Earl himself (Earl also of Orkney) as the 1st Ld., such title being given him in several writs, as it is to his next successor, thus bringing the above Henry (who eventually was killed at Flodden Field) to the position of 3rd Ld. The 9th Ld. had an only daughter, styled Mistress of Sinclair, upon whose sons he made a settlement of the succession. The 10th Ld. died in 1723, and the title became dormant on account of his son having been attainted for engaging in the rebellion of 1715. In 1782 the House of Lords admitted the claims to succession of Charles St. Clair, who was a member of another branch of the family, but coming within the scope of "heirs general:" their founder is given as Sir Wm. St. Clair of Herdmanston, a companion-in-arms of King Robert Bruce.

CREATIONS. Eng. : D. of Somerset and Bn. Seymour, 1547 (Barony one day bef. Dukedom) ; a Bt. 1611.—Sir Edwd. Seymour, brother of Jane Seymour and Kt. of the Bath, who became 1st Duke, was a great favourite with Henry VIII., who appointed him Protector of his son Edward VI. (the Duke's nephew). He was also made Earl Marshal and Lord Great Chamberlain, both for life only. A grandson was the first to receive the Baronetcy. The Protector, however, was brought to the block in 1552 through an outrageous usurpation of authority on the part of some leading nobles abetted by the Roman Catholics. His titles were thus forfeited, but one of his sons was made Earl of Hertford and Bn. Beauchamp. This nobleman married Catherine, sister of Lady Jane Grey, and her being of royal descent rendered the union criminal in law ; both of them were accordingly sent to the Tower, the Earl remaining there for nine years and his wife dying. His grandson succeeded him and was in 1640 created Marq. of Hertford, and in 1660 the Dukedom and Seymour Barony were restored with the original precedence. He unhappily was guilty of a like indiscretion to that of his grandfather, for he secretly married James I.'s 1st cousin, Lady Arabella Stuart, and had in consequence to flee the country, whilst his wife died in the Tower. The Marquessate expired with the 4th Duke, but the Earldom and the titles of 1547 went to a cousin, who was shot in Italy by the husband of a lady to whom he had been offensive. The 6th Peer, who was known as "The Proud Duke," married Lady Eliz. Percy, daughter of the last Earl of Northumberland, distinguished as Mistress of the Robes to Queen Anne. The 7th Duke was given the lapsed Earldom just named, but both that and the Hertford Earldom, with some other honours, lapsed at his decease, the Dukedom once more going to a collateral. This leading title, the second in rank in the Peerage of England, had been originally created in 1443, and was repeatedly extinct or forfeited before 1547, the 2nd Duke having been beheaded in 1463 when taken in arms against Edward IV. at Hexham. The surname was long corrupted into Seymour, but the original St. Maur was restored by the 13th Duke.

STAFFORD (FITZHERBERT-), name of following Baron, bros. and sists. "Fitzherbert" only.

STAFFORD, Baron. Francis Edward Fitzherbert-Stafford, 12th Bn. (Eng.), D.S.O. (1900-1), a D.L. for Staffordsh., late Maj. and Hon. Lt.-Col. 3rd Batt. R. Lanc. Regt. (Mil.), prev. Capt. and Hon. Maj. Staffs. Yeo.; served in S. Africa 1900-2; son of sist. of 10th and 11th Bns., Mrs. Basil Fitzherbert (d. 1831), assumed by Roy. Licence 1913 the additional name of Stafford: b. Aug. 28, 1859; suc. 1913 (U.); mar. 1903 Dorothy Hilda, dau. of Albert O. Worthington, of Maple Hayes, Lichfield. Seat, Swynnerton Pk., Stone, Staffs.

Creations. Eng.: A Bt. 1621; Bn. Stafford, 1640.—There were eight Bns. Stafford by tenure, and after these there was in 1298 created a Stafford Barony by writ, the 2nd Bn. being made Earl of Stafford (Co.), and the Peerage lasting till 1521, when the 9th Bn. and 8th Earl, who was also 3rd Duke of Buckingham, was beheaded. The Barony was newly created in 1547, when Henry Stafford, son and heir of his beheaded predecessor, was the recipient. This line lasted till about 1640, and was then immediately restarted, Sir Wm. Howard, Kt. of the Bath, a younger son of the Earl of Arundel and a descendant of the last Duke of Buckingham, being made Bn. and Visc. Stafford. He was attainted in 1678 and beheaded in 1680, but in 1688 his widow was made a Countess for life, and her son created an Earl, this last title continuing till 1762. The title of Stafford was now dormant for over 60 years, but a resolution of the House of Lords in 1824 reversed the attainder of 1678 and awarded the title of 8th Bn. to Sir Geo. W. Stafford-Jerningham, 7th Bt., as heir general of the Howard line. The terms of remainder as given by Nicolas are, "to the heirs male of their bodies, failing which to the heirs [female] of their bodies." The present Baron, succeeding through his mother, has changed the family name from "Stafford-Jerningham" to "Fitzherbert-Stafford," while the Baronetcy, which cannot be inherited through a female, has passed to a distant cousin—see under "Jerningham." The numbering is reckoned from 1547, as the extinction in 1640 was immediately followed by recommencement. It may be added that in 1461 a Humphry Stafford was created a Baron, but beheaded eight years afterwards.

CREATIONS. U.K.: Bn. Strafford, 1835; E. of Strafford and Visc. Enfield, 1847.—This well-known Earldom of more troublous times was revived and awarded to Fd.-Marshal the Rt. Hon. Sir John Byng, G.C.B., G.C.H., grandson of the 1st Visc. Torrington and on his mother's side a descendant of the Wentworth family, to whom the original Peerage was assigned: he was a distinguished Commander in the Peninsula and at Waterloo. The Barony was conferred on him first, and the Earldom twelve years later. Both the 2nd and 3rd Earls were summoned to the Lords in their fathers' Barony, having previously sat in the Commons: the 3rd Earl was Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs and for India. Of earlier holders of the Earldom the first was Thos. Wentworth, who was impeached and beheaded in 1641. His son had the honours restored to him in 1662, but he died childless in 1695. The title was again revived in 1711 and conferred upon the 3rd Bn. Raby, who was a great-nephew of the 1st Earl; and under this creation it was held by three Peers and expired in 1799.

Bowes, 1887.—The 1st Ld. Glamis was Patrick Lyon, a feudal Chief who had been made a P.C. and Master of the Household. The widow of the 5th Ld. was burnt as a witch at Edinburgh in 1537, being accused of designs upon the life of James V. Her son was also condemned for execution, but respited and imprisoned till he should attain his majority; before which time the fabricator of the charges confessed to their falsity, when the youth was released and restored to his estates and title. The 9th Earl assumed his wife's surname of Bowes. The late 13th Earl was given the U.K. Barony.

Creations. Eng.: E. of Suffolk, 1603; Visc. Andover and Bn. Howard of Charlton, 1622; E. of Berkshire, 1626.—Lord Thos. Howard, son of the attainted 4th Duke of Norfolk (beheaded 1572), was created Earl of Suffolk: he had been a distinguished naval officer under Elizabeth and was specially vigilant in discovering the Gunpowder Plot; later on he was appointed Chancellor of Cambridge University and Lord High Treasurer of England. Previously to the Earldom he had received the Barony of Howard de Walden, but that Barony fell into abeyance on the death of the 3rd Earl and ultimately was revived in different branch of the family. The 1st Earl's 2nd son was created Visc. Andover and afterwards Earl of Berkshire. The 4th Earl of the latter title succeeded as 11th Earl of Suffolk (the tenures of title in this line having averaged much shorter than those of the other owing to a brother or uncle having succeeded in four instances). Former Earldoms of Suffolk had existed, and one of them in 1448 rose to be a Dukedom: the 3rd Duke was beheaded in 1513 and a 4th created a year after; the 7th and last was beheaded in 1554. There had also been one Earl of Berkshire previous to the above creation, but this lasted only 1620-3.

Creations. Scot.: E. of Sutherland, about 1230, Eng.: A Bt. 1620; Bn. Gower, 1703; Gt. Br.: Earl Gower and Visc. Trentham, 1746; Marq. of Stafford, 1786. U.K.: D. of Sutherland, 1833—The Scottish Earldom is said to have existed in 1057; but William, styled the 1st Earl, was given the title about 1230 for his services in suppressing an insurrection. The 11th Earl was succeeded by his sister. The 12th (rather 13th, if the Countess is reckoned) forfeited his title in 1562 from suspected complicity in the Earl of Huntly's rebellion; but it was restored in 1565, from which date his precedence is reckoned in the Scottish Roll of Peers. He was afterwards poisoned by his uncle's widow, who wanted the title for her son; but his own son escaped by accidental detention from the poisoned meal, and the perpetrator was senteuced to death, but preferred suicide in prison. The Countess who was 21st in line married the 2nd Marq. of Stafford, who long afterwards was created 1st Duke (in 1833). The 1st Bn. Gower was Sir Jno. Leveson-Gower, 5th Bt., who had married a daughter of the 1st Duke of Rutland. His successor was raised to the Earldom, the 2nd Earl to the Marquessate, and the 2nd Marq. to the Dukedom. It was the 2nd Duke who assumed the additional name of Sutherland.

TAAFFE, family name of follg. Viscounty.

TAAFFE, VISCOUNT. HENRY Taaffe, 12th Visc. (Irel.), a Count of the Holy Rom. Emp.; Lieut. in Austrian Army; son of 11th V.: b. May 22, 1872; suc. 1895; mar. 1897 Maria Magda Fuchs. Seat, Ellischau Castle, Silberberg, Bohemia; Kolinetz Castle, Bohemia.

CREATIONS. Irel.: Visc. Taaffe and Bn. of Ballymote, 1628. Holy Rom. Emp. (Austro-Germ.): A Count, 1704.—Sir John Taaffe (Kt.), son of Sir Wm. Taaffe (who had distinguished himself in putting down an Irish rebellion in 1597, as also in repulsing a Spanish invasion), was awarded these Irish Peerages. The 2nd Visc., who was made Earl of Carlingford, had been a zealous supporter of the Royal cause during the Civil War, and in consequence his estates were sequestered, bringing about the Continental residence of the family. The 3rd Earl, who was Chamberlain to the Emperor Ferdinand, a Marshal of the Empire and Councillor of State, was given the Holy Roman Countship. The Earldom lapsed on the death of the 4th Earl (5th Visc.) in 1783. The 6th Visc., who, being a collateral, obtained the Countship only by new creation as a reward for his services, defeated the Turks at the Siege of Belgrade. The 4th Count (9th Visc.) was Governor of Styria and Gallicia and President of the Supreme Court of Appeal at Vienna. This series of foreign associations led to a questioning by the House of Lords as to the next Visct.'s status as a British subject; but this was recognised by the Committee of Privileges in 1860. The 11th Visc. was Prime Minister of Austria 1879-93.

Creation. Irel.: Bn. Trimlestown, 1462. (The 16th Bn. spelt the title "Trimleston," and that is the form in the Irish Roll, but the present Peer restored the form here given.)—Sir Robt. Barnewall was created 1st Bn. by Edward IV. His successor had to receive a pardon for participation in the plot of Lambert Simnel. The 3rd Bn. was Lord High Chancellor of Ireland. On the death of the 16th Peer in 1879 the title was dormant till 1891, when it was claimed by a remote cousin who died the same year, before his right had been established: this process had consequently to be undertaken by his brother the present Baron. In 1634 there was a dispute as to precedence between the 7th Bn. and the 9th Bn. Dunsany, and it was then decided in favour of the former. In 1893, when the present Peer established his right, the order was reversed; but still later a new Roll was made up with "Trimleston" restored to its former position.

CREATIONS. Irel.: A Bt. 1620; Visc. of Valentia, 1622 (N.S.); Bn. Mountnorris, 1629.—Sir Fras. Annesley (Kt.), a P.C. and Secretary of State in the Irish Government, was created a Baronet (the second person in Ireland to obtain that title) and afterwards made Bn. Mountnorris. The Viscounty was a reversionary grant to fall to Sir Francis on the death of the then Visc., who was without an heir (Sir Henry Power, cr. Visc. 1622, d. 1642); the Mountnorris Barony was valid at once. The 2nd Visc. was made Earl of Anglesey and Bn. Annesley in the English Peerage, and these titles descended to the 6th Earl, who was also 5th Bn. Altham, a title conferred on the 1st Earl's 2nd son. But on his death in 1761 the English House of Lords refused to admit this 6th Earl's eldest son, raising an objection to his legitimacy, which the Irish Parliament had accepted as good. He thus retained the Irish honours and had that of Earl of Mountnorris added to them—an Earldom that went no further than his only surviving son (1793-1844). The Viscty. and the Mountnorris Barony now passed again to a collateral, the grandfather and predecessor of the present Peer; 'Debrett,' however, regards both of these as unsubstantiated claimants only, stating that they have never had their titles established by the Committee of Privileges.

Creations. Eng.: A Bt. 1643; Bn. Waldegrave, 1686 (N.S.). Gt. Br.: Earl Waldegrave and Visc. Chewton, 1729.—Sir Henry Waldegrave, 4th Bt., was created 1st Bn. by James II., a natural daughter of whom he married. His successor was raised to the Earldom, and, becoming a Protestant, was able to take his seat in the Lords. The 5th Earl was drowned when a boy. The 8th was a Vice-Admiral and C.B., and was serving in the Mediterranean at the time of Nelson's victory at Trafalgar, but we are asked to correct the statement that he was himself engaged in that battle. The widow of the 7th Earl lived at the mansion of Strawberry Hill, and married as her 4th husband Chichester Fortescue, afterwards Lord Carlingford. The 1st Ld. Radstock was a brother of the 4th Earl.

Maynard, son of 3rd and last Visc. Maynard. Seats, The Castle, Warwick; Easton Lodge, Dunmow, Essex (let).

Creations. Eng.: Bn. Brooke, 1621. Gt. Br.: Earl Brooke, 1746; E. of Warwick, 1759.—The Rt. Hon. Sir Fulke Greville, a Kt. of the Bath and Chancellor of the Exchequer, was created 1st Bn. Brooke; he was descended on the female side from the brother of Wm. de Beauchamp, 10th Earl of Warwick (died 1298) in the original line. The 2nd Bn. was a General in the Parliamentary Army at Edgehill and in the Siege of Lichfield, during the latter of which he was killed by a musket-ball. The 4th Bn. was one of the Commissioners who invited Charles II. to return. The 8th Bn. was promoted to be Earl Brooke; and later, when a pre-existing Earldom of Warwick had become extinct, that title was added to his previous one. There had been Earls of Warwick from the time of William II., and the extinctions, forfeitures, and beheadings which have followed them, make the title a rival in tragedy with the Norfolk Dukedom. These concomitants, however, have been happily absent from the present line of descent. The 13th Earl of the original line (brother-in-law of the famous "king-maker," who in 1450 was created Earl for life) was promoted to be Duke of Warwick and crowned "King of the Isle of Wight" by Henry VI.'s own hand. These latter honours went no further than himself, and his sister's husband, who received the Earldom by a fresh creation, was slain at Barnet in 1471. Edward IV.'s brother, the Duke of Clarence, was the next recipient of the title, but he was attainted and murdered, his three successors being all beheaded. The second of the three who thus suffered was Margaret, Countess of Salisbury and Warwick; the third, who was previously Visc. L'Isle, was created Duke of Northumberland two years before his execution. His son was restored to the Earldom, but died childless in 1589, when the title remained extinct till 1618. A new series of eight Earls now followed, and upon the lapsing of their line in 1759 that of the present Earl succeeded as stated above. "Earl Brooke," being the older, is the leading title upon the Roll.

Creations. Irel.: Bn. La Poer, 1375 by writ; a Bt. 1665; Visc. Tyrone and Bn. Beresford, 1720; E. of Tyrone, 1746; M. of Waterford, 1789. Gt. Br.: Bn. Tyrone, 1786.—'Burke' gives us the precise date of creation of the original Barony, but does not give the name of its first holder, so that it appears doubtful whether he is satisfied of its existence; Bn. le Power, however (a title under attainder from about 1700, and the heir to which is E. de P. de la Poer), he gives us as a descendant of Robt. de Poher, Knight Marshal and Joint Governor of Ireland in 1179. The 6th Bn. was in 1672 created Earl of Tyrone and Visc. Decies, but these titles expired with the 3rd Earl. The daughter of this last, however, who was allowed the Barony of La Poer in fee, married Sir Marcus Beresford, 4th Bt., and to him were accorded the Viscty. of Tyrone and subsequently a renewal of the lapsed Earldom. The 2nd Earl was elevated to the Marquessate and created Bn. Tyrone, of Gt. Britain, whilst on the death of his mother he inherited also the Barony of La Poer—the only Irish Peerage besides the Massereene Viscty. which is open to female succession. The 4th Marq. was in holy orders, and the 5th, who had represented Co. Waterford in Parliament, became its Lieutenant, a K.P., and Master of the Buckhounds: the 6th, also a K.P., was accidentally drowned.

Wellesley, 1760. Nethds.: Prince of Waterloo, 1815. Spain: Duque de Cindad Rodrigo and a Grandee of the 1st Class, 1812. Portugal: Conde do Vimeiro, 1811; Duque da Victoria (commonly spelt Vittoria, but the town is in Spain, where it is never used), and Marquez de Torres Vedras, 1812.—Of the deeds of the great Duke of Wellington, the "hero of a hundred fights," this book is called upon to chronicle but the slightest summary. He sat in the Irish Parliament in 1790 as Member for Trim, but from 1794 to 1815 his career was all but wholly a military one. His first great battle was that of Assaye (1803) in the Nizam's dominions; and after it came the long series of the Peninsular War—Vimieira, Talavera, Busaco, Fuentes d' Onoro, Ciudad Rodrigo, Badajoz, Salamanca, and Vitoria (these in 1808-13), followed by Orthez and Toulouse in France (1814), and then Quatre Bras and Waterloo. From Jan. 1828 for not quite three years he was Prime Minister. He died in 1852 at the age of 83. All the above honours of U.K. and the Continent were accorded to him personally. His grandfather, the 1st Bn. Mornington (Irish Peerage) was Richd. Colley, who assumed a cousin's surname of Wesley (the celebrated Rev. Jno. Wesley was a relative) and afterwards changed it to Wellesley. The 2nd Bn. obtained the Earldom of Mornington, and his 3rd son was the 1st Duke. The two elder sons were respectively Richard, 2nd Earl, created Marq. Wellesley in Ireland, who was Governor-General of India, but died childless; and William, 3rd Earl, created Bn. Maryborough—both titles passing to his son and grandson, but that of Maryborough lapsing on the death of this last in 1863, when the Mornington titles and the Wellesley Viscty. went to the 2nd Duke.

Titled Relatives.

CREATIONS. Scot.: Ld. Wemyss, 1628; E. of Wemyss and Ld. Elcho and Methel, 1633; E. of March, Visc. of Peebles, and Ld. Douglas of Neidpath, Lyne, and Munard, 1697. U.K.: Bn. Wemyss, 1821.—Sir Jno. Wemyss, 1st Bt. (a title which expired with his son), was created 1st Ld. and Earl: he sided with the Parliament in the Civil War. The 2nd Peer obtained a new patent giving remainder of his Earldom and Lordship to his daughter and her heirs male. The heir of the Earl 5th in line was attainted for taking part in the rebellion of 1745, so that the titles remained dormant from his father's death till his own (1756-87), when, as he left no issue, his brother succeeded as untouched by the attainder. ('Burke, however, singularly calls the attainted successor "6th Earl de jure," thus making the present Peer the 10th; 'Debrett,' on the other hand, omitting the Ctss. in the numbering, styles him only the 8th.) The latter's grandson, the 7th Earl, inherited also the Earldom of March, first bestowed on a son of the 1st Duke of Queensberry, the Hon. W. Douglas, whose sister had married the 4th Earl of Wemyss. The 7th Earl was likewise the recipient of the U.K. Barony. Surname conventionally Charteris only: this had been assumed in 1771 by the 6th Earl; Douglas appears to have been added by the 7th on his accession to the March Earldom with the landed estate of his great great grandmother Lady Anne Douglas.

CREATION. Eng.: Bn. Wentworth, 1529 by writ.—Sir Thomas Wentworth (Kt.) was granted the title of Bn. Wentworth. The 2nd, the last English Governor of Calais, was made a P.C. and a Kt. Banneret. The 4th Bn. was created Earl of Cleveland, but that title went no further. Two granddaughters followed as holders of that Barony, and in their line of successors we find the further extinct titles of Visc. Wentworth and Bn. Lovelace. The Wentworth Barony itself in 1825 fell into abeyance between the deceased Baron's sister Judith (who by marriage had become Lady Milbanke) and his nephew Lord Scarsdale; but this condition was terminated on the death of Lord Scarsdale in 1856, by the succession of Anna Isabella, daughter of Lady Milbanke and then widow of Lord Byron (whose surname was Noel-Byron). Her only child, the Hon. Augusta Ada Noel-Byron mar. as his 1st wife 8th Bn. King, crea. 1st E. of Lovelace, and the Wentworth Bny., after being held by their two sons, eventually devolved upon the present Bnss. (Further particulars under "Lovelace.")

Galway.

Creations. Irel. : Bn. of Delvin, perhaps 1389 by writ ; E. of Westmeath, 1621.—The name of Gilbert de Nugent is given as that of the 1st Bn. by tenure. The title then passed by marriage to the FitzJohn family, but came back by the same process to Sir Wm. Nugent. In concert with the Earl of Kildare the 12th Bn. was engaged in hostilities with the native Chiefs, by one of whom, O'Connor, he was treacherously made a prisoner and kept long in confinement. The 14th Bn. was commissioned by the Crown to extirpate the O'Mores, but was sent prisoner to London in 1580 on suspicion of holding treasonable correspondence with the Leinster rebels ; having, however, established his innocence, he returned to Ireland, and Elizabeth ordered him several grants of forfeited land, which the troubles of the country prevented his receiving. His son, the 15th Bn., was raised to the Earldom. The 4th Earl was outlawed for having fought for James II., but the sentence was afterwards remitted. The 6th Earl conformed to the Protestant Church. The 8th was in 1822 created a Marquess, but he left no son and that title lapsed in 1877, whilst the Earldom passed to a cousin, an ancestor of whom had been created Lord Riverston by James II. after abdication — the title consequently being never admitted, though it continued to be used till its holder became 9th Earl. The 10th served on the Continent.

Creations. Eng.: Bn. St. John of Basing, 1539; E. of Wiltshire, 1550; M. of Winchester, 1551.—Sir Wm. Paulet, K.G., was the recipient of these three creations. He was a confidant of Henry VIII. and held the office of Lord Treasurer of England through the changes of the three succeeding reigns; and on being once asked how he had contrived to stand through them all, he replied, "By being a willow, not an oak." The 3rd Peer was given to literature and writing poetry. The 5th sacrificed all his property through supporting Charles I. in the Civil War, his mansion at Basing being burnt to the ground after a siege. The 6th Marq. was made Duke of Bolton, and that title ran through six in the line. The 3rd Duke (8th Marq.) involved himself with the actress Lavinia Bestwick, and had three sons by her previously to the death of his 1st wife. As he left no other issue, though he eventually married the actress, his titles went to his brother; but on the death of the 6th Duke, who was an Admiral of the White, the Dukedom expired and the Marquessate passed to a descendant of the 5th holder of that title. The 13th Marq. in his closing years assumed the additional name of Burroughs, but this appears to have been for himself alone. His grandson the 15th Peer was a Major in the Coldstream Guards and was killed at Magersfontein in December 1899.

Finch, 1674; E. of Nottingham, 1681,—The widow of Sir Moyle Finch, 1st Bt., was created Viscts. Maidstone and Ctss. of Winchilsea. The eldest son succeeded his father in the Baronetcy, but he predeceased his mother, so that his next brother became her successor in the Peerage. Sir Heneage Finch (Kt.), son of the 3rd brother, having been Attorney-General and Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, was separately created a Bt. and raised to the Peerage as Bn. Finch, and subsequently appointed Lord Chancellor with the title of Earl of Nottingham. His son, the 2nd Earl, succeeded as 7th Earl of Winchilsea. Previously hereto the 3rd Earl of Winchilsea (distinguished by having 27 children), who was high in favour with the 2nd Charles and James (prevailing upon the latter to return to London on his first attempted flight), was made Bn. FitzHerbert, a title that expired with the 5th Earl. His successor, named above as having united the two Earldoms, was twice Secretary of State under William, Anne, and George I.

Creation. Eng.: Bn. Zouche of Haryngworth, 1308, by writ.—William la Zouche, Lord of Haryngworth, was summoned to Parliament as 1st Bn. The 4th Peer was engaged in the French wars of Richard II. and Henry IV. On the death of the 11th Bn. in 1625 the title fell into abeyance, and so continued till 1815. The 5th Bn. had married the Bnss. St. Maur, 7th in line; but the abeyance affected both titles, and in the latter case has never been terminated. A second, but brief, abeyance of the Zouche line occurred in 1825, and the daughter in whose favour it was determined altered her title to De la Zouche. Her son the 14th Bn. did not continue this form, and the title stands on the Roll as "Zouche of Haryngworth."

INDEX TO THE SEATS AND RESIDENCES
CITED IN THE FOREGOING DIRECTORY.

 The design of this Index, the comprehensiveness of which we have been compelled somewhat to limit, is to furnish a ready means of reference to the occupant of every address in the Directory within the British Isles, provided it bears a distinctive name, is non-official in character, and held by a person not lower in rank than a Knight or the son or daughter of a Baron. The only exceptions are those of unsubstantiated claimants, or of ladies whose former claims to titles have been forfeited by re-marriage. Many residences will doubtless be merely villas or even houses in a terrace distinguished by some special name; but no line of exclusion can possibly be drawn, nor is it called for in a list which is not restricted to "seats." On the other hand there are almost certainly a large number of villages and hamlets cited in the form of residences; but this also is unavoidable (except by the putting of questions which would often be thought offensive) in view of the large number of actual seats which are designated by apparently local names without the addition of the word "House," "Hall," or "Park." Yet again, there are a large number of residences which are appended to more than one name in the DIRECTORY; and in these cases, if relationship cannot be traced, it is presumable that one name represents the occupant and the other the owner. We have done our best to make the distinction clear, or at any rate to supply the name of the occupant.

The greatest pains have been taken to supply to every address the far too frequently omitted post-town, a long dash being substituted when the Editor's efforts for its discovery have been without avail. More complete addresses will very often be found under the names in the Directory, but they are never consciously so abridged as to entail extra labour on the Post Office. It should be noted in the case of such abridgments as "Glos.," "Worc.," "Leic.," that they invariably denote the county and not the county town—no town whatever being contracted if it can possibly be confused with the county. "Durham" without "Co." means the city of Durham, and similarly in numerous Irish examples.

At the cost of much additional space, every address is now given in the style prescribed under our "Modes of Addressing Persons of Title;" many contractions, however, will naturally be expanded in copying. The name and style of the wife is appended in those numerous instances in which the husband does not hold a title which would on his own account have given him a place in this work.

The rule observed in alphabetising has been to treat the entire name of the residence as one word (the parenthesised "The," coming out of its true position, can only be ignored): this course is unavoidable on account of the vast number of instances in which a compound designation is spelt by some in a single word and by others in two.

MEMORABLE ORGANS.

Sir John Ure Primrose, Lord Provost of Glasgow, wrote: "Apropos of the New Organ which you have recently fitted up in the City Hall, I desire to say how greatly I have been delighted with all the work your firm have done in Glasgow. The New Organ in every respect sustains the high reputation which your firm already enjoy. The instruments in the City Hall, in the Art Galleries, in the University, and in the St. Andrew's Hall will remain as memorials of your work which reflect the highest credit on your workmanship and skill."

FINEST IN 1877.

St. Andrew's Hall, Glasgow.—"Although by no means the largest, the Organ is by many degrees the finest Concert Instrument yet erected in Great Britain."—HENRY SMART and W. T. BEST, 12*th December*, 1877.

FINEST IN 1905.

Glasgow University. — "Probably the finest from the purely musical standpoint which the firm have erected in any part of Scotland."—Glasgow Herald, 27*th October*, 1905.

FINEST IN 1914.

"The Organ in the Manchester Town Hall is the finest in the Country, and a crowded audience was entranced by the delightful recital. Hundreds were unable to gain admission."—Daily Dispatch, 12*th April*, 1915.

ALL Lewis Organs are equally well constructed and a revelation in purity of tone. Prices range upwards from £200 for small Organs.

DROITWICH.

Famed for its brine baths and picturesque old houses, Droitwich, situated amidst charming country, and within a few miles of Worcester City, holds a unique position among English Spas. Droitwich possesses a brine which may practically be regarded as a saturated solution of common salt.

The brine has a specific gravity of 1·2129, and it has been shown to contain very marked radio-active properties. The baths have been brought thoroughly up-to-date, and the Spa continues to grow in popularity.

The chief diseases for which Droitwich treatment is indicated are various forms of neuritis, especially sciatica; all the more chronic forms of gouty and rheumatic joint trouble, especially rheumatoid arthritis or disease of the joints, derive great benefit from the treatment. Various forms of heart disease show considerable improvement under the special course adopted for their treatment. The joint stiffness following on acute rheumatism is quickly relieved. Inflammation of the muscles and fibrous tissue, so common after influenza, gains a speedy cure.

DROITWICH

The world-famous Spa for treatment of Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Neuritis, Arthritis, etc., in the luxurious Baths of Natural Brine. Open throughout the year.

THE RADIO-ACTIVITY, the Radio-Emanative, and other properties are ONLY PRESENT IN THE NATURAL BRINE.

Splendid Holiday Country, Golf, Daily Music, Summer Excursions, etc. Magnificent Brine Swimming Baths.

Illustrated Booklet free from—

J. H. HOLLYER (Baths Director), 29, Corbett Estate Offices, DROITWICH (Worcs.).

MALVERN.

Great Malvern, a fine example of a Garden City, is a favourite watering-place, residential town, and scholastic centre, lying in the garden planes at the foot of the Malvern Hills, noted for their fine spring waters, pure air, and invigorating climate.

Malvern Water—from its extreme purity, and through the medical orders of distinguished Physicians—has come largely into use as a STILL TABLE WATER, free from Lime and all injurious Salts, so that it may be termed an efficient PROTECTION against Typhoid, Calcareous Disease, &c. There are many Springs of widely varying quality in or near Malvern—the PUREST being the HISTORIC SPRING (St. Ann's Well) in the Syenitic Rock above the town of Ma'vern.

The Droitwich Brine is now conveyed directly from Droitwich to Malvern, so that the well-known Brine-baths may be obtained at Malvern.

Great Malvern and the neighbourhood are much visited by invalids for whom a rather bracing dry inland climate is required; the place is open throughout the year. There are plenty of amusements in the shape of a theatre, concert hall, and open-air concerts, and two golf courses.
